HEYBURN LIKE Y TO OPPOSE BILL

Fight Expected on Proposal to Give Pension to Widow of Fitzhugh Lee.

[Special to The Times-Dispatch.] Washington, February 23.—There is considerable speculation here relative to the question of whether Senator Heyburn, of Idaho, who almost invariably objects to anything connected with the Confederacy or the Confederate government, will raise objection to the bill offered a day or two ago by Senator Martin to pay Mrs. Edie Beanard Lee, widow of General Fitzhugh Lee, of Virginia, $30 a month pension.

It has become almost the universal custom in the Senate when a matter is proposed, or anything is up for consideration, that would benefit the people who took part in the Confederate government, for the Idaho Senator to raise a fuss about it. He is particularly eager to oppose legislation for Confederate re-unions, and in his efforts is particularly demonstrative in the construction of a monument to Confederate naval heroes at Vicksburg.

Therefore, it is more than likely that even if he does not prevent the Lee bill from passing, that he will make trouble when it is brought up.
Senator Martin is interested in another matter that is of considerable
